

AD MEN HAVE GREAT TIME AT PENITENTIARY

Sixty Phoenicians Make the Trip to Florence and Are Entertained by Governor Hunt, Warden Sims and Prisoners

INSPECTION OF STATE PRISON

Followed by Dinner and Most Instructive Speaking Over by Charles Fulton, One of the Prisoners

With Jolly John Hyder in his Buick de luxe leading, sixty members and friends of the Phoenix Ad Club visited Florence and the state prison yesterday as the guests of Governor Hunt and Warden Sims, and in addition to a visit of inspection through the institution held a very enjoyable session of the society when a program of great merit, varied with music by the prison orchestra, was given and generally enjoyed by all both advertising men and prisoners. The autocrat left Phoenix before daylight yesterday and returned tired but exceedingly well pleased with the trip last evening. The run was made down there in little more than three hours while the return trip took but very little longer time. The trip was a revelation to many of the members of the association who had not hitherto been inside prison walls, especially from a sanitary standpoint, while the fact that one of the prisoners, Charles Fulton, presided at a general meeting in the library and lecture room where the technical ad papers were read and the discussions made was a surprise to all.

The morning was spent in looking through the prison and the different departments of the great institution. This done all sat down to a good dinner, the same that was served to the prisoners, thereby appealing to the guests by the novelty of the thing. At the dinner a number of speeches were made, notably those by Governor Hunt in welcoming the guests, and that by Harry Welch in answer to the welcome. Promptly at two o'clock the gathering in the library got down to business. Charles Fulton was introduced by President Dalmage of the Ad Club, and Fulton made an almost ideal presiding officer during the session. President Dalmage read a telegram from H. J. Coleman, twice president of the Associated Ad Clubs of America, to the Phoenix Ad club giving greeting and best wishes for success. Letters were also read from Arthur G. Nueymer of the New Orleans Item, the leader in the south in the clean up campaign and one from S. C. Dodds, the great advertiser that manages the publicity of Coca Cola.

Among the speakers who made great impressions upon the audience was Clifton B. Jackson, secretary of the Mr. Clemens, Mich., chamber of commerce who has national fame as an advertiser and who returned from Florence to Phoenix with the club. Mr. Jackson will journey on to the coast in a few days. A. G. Wolcott, assistant secretary of the American Mining Congress, who is in Phoenix opening the preliminary for the coming of the great gathering of mining men from all over the world was one of the party.

Among the advertising papers was one by Mrs. Pauline I. Colodny, who told of the ad from the standpoint of the shopper, and who emphasized the necessity of the salesperson in the mercantile establishments being up on what was advertised, and how necessary and how very much better it is to all concerned for the advertiser to play fair with the public. From the woman buyers point of view the store ought to fulfill every promise made in an advertisement.

A very able paper was read by L. V. Eyttinge, a life prisoner in the penitentiary for murder, who forcefully and logically spoke of the mail order business, and the fact that an estimate is given that $500,000 is taken from Arizona every year by the mail order houses outside the state. He gave some excellent advice as to methods to control this trade and keep it in Phoenix. After this session the Phoenicians took their leave more than satisfied with all they had seen and heard. There were in the party about 60 in all at the table following.

Henry Myers, Roy Murray, H. M. Clemens, Fred E. Colodny, C. E. Miller, W. B. Leecraft, Fred Blackman, Chas. Hall, A. G. Dalmage, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Beane, Albert Borkner, Mr. A. Donofrio, Otis E. Young, James C. Jeffrey, Vic Hanny, J. H. Macky, John B. McKan, Chas. E. Heath, G. N. McBean, Hal C. Prince, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. J. McElroy, S. G. tion of France and Belgium. Paris announces that the Germans have evacuated Amiens. The whereabouts of the German reinforcements of 60,000, reported to be marching south on three roads in that neighborhood, is unknown.

The Belgian army is credited with a determination to reoccupy Brussels, and claims to have cut the railroad between Liege and Brussels, thus severing an important German line of communication, and to be pushing the scattered German forces, composed for the most part of reservists, toward the southeast.

Military authorities in France consider the position of the German armies as critical. The army which is south of the Argonne forest, they argue, will hardly retreat eastward, owing to the danger from the strongly held French fortress of Verdun, while the mountainous and wooded character of the Argonne district renders retreat due north impracticable. The left wing of the Germans, they believe, must retreat in a northwesterly direction. They also cherish the hope that the Belgians will succeed in clearing the Germans out of Brabant, when the entire German army will be obliged to retreat on Luxembourg, an operation which they liken to the passing of a large stream through a narrow bottleneck.

The German version of the battle of Marne has yet to be heard. The German official wireless is silent regarding the operations of the past week in that theater. It records the loyal success by the army of the crown prince which, it reports, took a fortified position to the southwest of Verdun, and the beginning of an attack on the forts south of Verdun with heavy artillery. No date is given, and the operations may have occurred at an early stage of the battle.

The position of the troops, as stated in the French reports, is that the German right army is retreating beyond the River Vesle, which runs between Rheims and Soissons, and that the German forces in the center,

COMM'R F. C. HOWE SEES NO MENACE IN IMMIGRATION

Frederick C. Howe.

"Remembering that our ancestors and the ancestors of every American of today probably didn't look much more prepossessing than these, I am not alarmed over the immigration from southern Europe," says Frederick C. Howe, new commissioner of immigration at the port of New York. "People who are honest and hard working aren't going to do us any harm, no matter where they come from, and besides I believe the South Europeans bring us valuable traits in their joyousness and their warm-hearted dispositions to add to the makeup of the composite American of the future."

GOING AFTER TONTO ROAD IMPROVEMENT

Phoenix Board of Trade in Touch With the Forest Service to Have That Share of Work Done Quickly

The importance of the Roosevelt road to this section of the country especially in view of the added travel through this country incident to the great expositions on the coast next year, and the European war likewise, has been grasped by local business and professional men for some time, however it remained for the Board of Trade to institute an aggressive campaign for immediate work upon the road. It has been recently learned by the Board of Trade that the ten percent allowance from the income of the national forests, which is applied annually to the construction of roads through the forests is just now available. Since part of the Roosevelt road is in the Tonto National Forest, it is greatly to be desired that the money be used promptly for the repairs upon that part of the road at least, as it could not be expected that that portion of the road would be repaired out of the taxes from either Maricopa or Gila counties.

In consequence of this situation a series of telegrams have been going back and forth from the local board of trade and the Washington, D. C., authorities to get quick action. During the past week Senator Mark Smith and Congressman Hayden have both been notified by wire of the desires of the people of Maricopa county on this thing and both are now working to bring it about. However, in order that there might be more concerted action the forest authorities at Washington were also notified in reply to the wire from Phoenix Assistant Forester Potter, himself an Arizonian, directed the efforts of the local board to Arthur C. Ringland, district forester at Albuquerque, who has charge of the forests in the southwest.

Mr. Ringland's known delight in Arizona and his friendliness for Phoenix and the Salt River Valley are sufficient guarantee that he will do all in his power to further the wishes of the people in this section and it can be safely said that the forest service part of the work will be done in plenty of time to be of the greatest assistance in bringing people to this section by means of overland automobile travel.

which penetrated farthest south, falling back north of Vitry le Francois, Seinaize, have crossed the River Marne and are in the hilly wooded country between Vitry and Verdun. The Germans have lost Revigny and Brabant le Roi.

The French appear to have taken the offensive along almost the entire front, as indicated by the successes in the east between Luneville and Saint Die, where they have retaken several towns they evacuated a fortnight ago, while reports from Basel say hard fighting occurred yesterday in the Guebwiller valley in southern Alsace.

A DICTIONARY OF WAR TERMS AND PLACES

Chasseurs d'Afrique (shah sur)—French light cavalry stationed in Africa, white troops.
Chassepot (chah po)—A light rapid fire needle gun used by the French in the last Franco-Prussian war; now obsolete.
Cuirassier (kwi re seer)—Formerly a mounted soldier who wore a cuirass or breastplate; now used to designate any heavy cavalry.
Foreign Legion—Two regiments organized by France for service in Algeria, Tunis and Indo-China.
Gurkhas (gur kas)—Native troops of the British army in India from the state of Nepal.
Haussa—A Mohammedan soldier of the British African army recruited from the Bantu tribe.
Mitralleuse (mee trah yuz)—A breech loading machine gun of several groups barrels.
Poonahs—Native British Indian cavalry organized in Bombay.
Sepoys—Hindu or Mohammedan soldiers of the British Indian army, armed and uniformed like European soldiers.
Sikhs (sighks)—Native soldiers of the British Indian army from the Punjab.
Spahis (spa hees)—Arab light cavalry.
Tirailleurs (tee rah yurs)—Sharpshooters of the French army, usually used to designate native African rifle regiments, as Senegal tirailleurs, Turco-Algerian native infantry.
Uthians (u lams or yu lams)—German lancers; usually light cavalry and sometimes used to designate all light cavalry.
Zouaves—Originally native infantry organized by France from the Algerian Kabyle tribe of Zouaoua; now used to designate any troops that wear the distinctive Zouave uniform.

GREAT CROWD

sitions: "A man has no right to drink what he pleases; he has no right to eat what he pleases; he has no right to live in his house when he ought not to do so; he has no right to live at all when he ought to die. He has no right to refuse to drink what he ought to drink; he has no right to refuse to eat what he ought to eat; he has no right to refuse to wear what he ought to wear." These various propositions were aptly illustrated.

The illustration of the proposition that one had no right to live when he ought to die caused an interesting diversion. The speaker related the case of a man who had murdered a woman and two children at Terre Haute, Ind., for which crime he was hanged. He had forfeited his life; it was inimical to the public welfare that he should live.

Someone sitting near the stand spoke in a low tone to Mr. Faulk, who replied: "I am willing to have that out with Hunt," whereupon there was laughter and applause throughout the audience. The speaker declared himself to be in favor of capital punishment, when the audience applauded loudly. It was noticeable that the women led in the applause, and again when the speaker said: "If that murdered woman had been Governor Hunt's mother, he, too, would be in favor of capital punishment."

Public welfare, said the speaker, determines the rights of the individual. No man has a right to do anything or to refuse to do anything that is inimical to the public welfare. The sale of intoxicating liquors, said the speaker, was plainly contrary to the public welfare, and therefore no man had a right to engage in its sale or distribution.

No law, said the speaker, could be enduring when based on what was inherently wrong, on what was immoral or unjust. What may be immoral in one age is later shown to be immoral and wrong. Thus, slavery could not endure under the sanction of law. The speaker was frequently cheered throughout his address.

At night there was a peculiar demonstration by the advocates of the prohibition amendment. A large number of men assembled at the First Baptist church, and there was a great congregation of women at the C. A. stadium. The men marched to the singing of the battle hymn of the campaign.

MIAMI COUNTY CASE UP TODAY

Proposition of "Place on the Ballot for Miami County Squabble" to Be Argued in the Supreme Court Today

The judges of the supreme court will hear this morning the arguments of attorneys on the appeal of the Miami county case from the decision of Judge Smith of Yavapai, sitting as special judge in Maricopa county, upon the proposition of determining what shall rightfully be placed upon the ballot at the general election as an initiative measure. In other words the question is, "Is the Miami county division question a fit and proper matter to take before the voters of the entire state, and if not, does the denial of place upon the ballot to this destroy the initiative clauses of the constitution?"

The contention is made by the Van Dyke interests and the Miami County case of Miami that a refusal to place the proposition upon the ballot degrades the effect of the initiative. In the trial of the case before Judge Smith several weeks ago, the state lost the first skirmish. Assistant Attorney Hardy, upon the information of County Attorney Norman Johnson of Globe, filed an application for an injunction against the secretary of state Sidney P. Osborn, to prevent him from placing the ballot for the next general election, but the court, upon the demurrer of the secretary of state, represented by Sloan and Westervelt, ruled that there were sufficient facts set forth in the application for the temporary restraining order to constitute a cause of action and threw the case out of court. The assistant attorney general then appealed. Tomorrow there will be quite an array of counsel upon both sides. It is expected, however, that the chief argument for the state will be made by the attorney general, while that for the county dividers will be made by former Governor R. E. Sloan.

POPE WILL REMEMBER

Curt Refusal to Escort Belgium Prime, Displeases Pontiff

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH] ROME, Sept. 13.—Via Paris.—A dispatch from Turin, quotes the Stampa as saying that Cardinal Bourne, archbishop of Westminster, is conveying from the pope to King George a letter which is filled with sympathy for the British nation, which is described as the "Guardian of Peace, and Master of Justice." The Stampa adds that the pope asked the Austrian and Prussian ambassadors to give safe conduct for the return of Cardinal Mercier, prime minister of Belgium, to Belgium. This was refused, whereupon the pontiff answered that he would remember the unpleasant refusal.

Oliver Morosco has engaged Fritz Scheff, the comic opera star, to play the Kitty Gordon part this season in "Pretty Mrs. Smith."
